Part 18	Regulatory Affairs and Collaborative Action
Chapter 5	Directives System	Page 1

1.1 Purpose. This chapter establishes the policy and responsibilities for the Indian Affairs' (IA) Directives System. The Directives System is comprised of the operational policies and procedures that document the functions under the authority of the Assistant Secretary - Indian Affairs (AS-IA). The Directives System is managed and overseen by the AS-IA Office of Regulatory Affairs and Collaborative Action (RACA).

The Directives System provides a formal structure for developing, publishing, and applying clear, concise, and consistent IA program and administrative policy and procedure. It also facilitates IA's compliance with the law to have accurate and accessible documentation for employees and the public; provides appropriate controls and documentation of IA program and administrative functions; provides instructions/guidance to enable employees to perform their duties and responsibilities; and facilitates overall accountability across IA.

- 1.2 Scope. The Directives System applies to all programs and offices under the authority of the AS-IA<sup>1</sup>, including the offices under the AS-IA, the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), and the Bureau of Indian Education (BIE).
- 1.3 Policy. It is the policy of IA to develop and maintain a strong operational and internal control foundation through effective regulations, policies, procedures, handbooks, memoranda, manuals, and other means that facilitate compliance with all applicable federal laws and regulations as well as Department of the Interior (DOI) policies and procedures regarding Directives Management.

1.5 Responsibilities.

A. AS-IA is responsible for ensuring that IA establishes appropriate organizational programs and functions with adequate staffing and resources, policies, and procedures to comply with federal and Departmental regulations, requirements, policies, and procedures.

B. Deputy Assistant Secretaries and Directors, BIA and BIE are responsible for:

- 1) ensuring IA processes and resources are in place to facilitate cooperation and responsiveness to policy and procedure development, including timely review and signature of directives as appropriate;
- ensuring policy and procedures for functions within their authority are accurate and up-to-date, and that program staff/management work with RACA to develop and/or update policies and procedures as appropriate;
- 3) communicating with and managing regional participation in policy development as needed, including coordinating with Regional Directors to ensure policy is carried out as documented; and

- 4) ensuring all program and office management and staff are made aware of published directives within their area(s) of authority.
- C. Director, RACA is responsible for the overall management of the IA Directives System. RACA provides all guidance, technical assistance, review and editing, tracking, and communications regarding the development and publication of all components of the IA Directives System, including publication of directives online.
- D. RACA Directives staff are responsible for serving as the points of contact for IA programs/offices regarding directives development. Specifically, Directives staff are responsible for:
  - 1) tracking all directives development from initial inception to completion, including assigning and maintaining release numbers and document identification numbers;
  - 2) reviewing all drafts for format, proper delegation of authority, comprehension, and plain language, and providing edits and suggestions where needed;
  - 3) coordinating recommended changes/corrections with the originating office, and facilitating meetings with programs and other appropriate parties as needed;
  - 4) determining--in collaboration with the program contact(s)--when a directive is considered "final" and ready for surnaming and final signature;
  - 5) managing the IA Policy Database in the Data Tracking System (DTS) (Attachment 2); this includes entering all documents into the database, routing them, and tracking them through the final review, surnaming, and signature process, as well as reviewing and addressing any additional edits that may arise throughout this process;
  - 6) maintaining the official policy records for IA, including the surnames, pertinent correspondence regarding the drafts, and digitally signed directives, for records management purposes; and
  - 7) updating and maintaining the Directives System webpages, and ensuring directives published online are in compliance with Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended.
- E. IA Offices, including offices under the AS-IA, BIA, and BIE, and those located at Central Office and in the regions, are responsible for:
  - 1) working with RACA to develop, update, and/or maintain their current policies and related procedures, and doing so within established timeframes;
  - 2) working internally and across offices and programs as needed to develop and/or revise existing policies and procedures;
  - 3) working with RACA to rescind/remove outdated information under the components of the Directives System within their area(s) of authority; and

4) ensuring all program and office staff are made aware of published directives within their area(s) of authority.

1.6 Standards, Requirements, and Procedures.

- A. Standards and Requirements. The types of directives that are included in the IA Directives System are discussed in more detail here: https://www.bia.gov/directives-system. Additionally, the following standards and requirements apply to directives development:
  - 1) In accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act, RACA ensures all IA operating policy is available to the public and maintains a website of all IA Directives, including historical documentation whenever available.
  - 2) All IA programs and offices must work through RACA to develop and issue operational policies and procedures. Senior IA leadership issued a memorandum in February 2016 (Attachment 1) reiterating the importance of developing/updating IA policy, and that all IA programs and offices must work through RACA to do so.
  - 3) The originating office is viewed as the "subject matter expert" regarding what and how functions are performed; where and how information and decisions are secured; what requirements must be met to get benefits or service; and/or what procedures must be followed. Therefore, the originating office's responsibility for content improves the ability to document the functions of IA programs and meet the requirements of the Public Information section of the Administrative Procedure Act.
  - 4) Directives are intended to convey basic requirements and should generally be limited to a few pages. If a directive becomes longer, consideration should be given to reconstructing the material into additional components (for example, into an IAM chapter and a handbook, or into multiple IAM chapters). Handbooks provide a greater level of detail (i.e., procedural) regarding how IA programs and staff carry out their responsibilities. Handbooks should not repeat content that is already covered in a corresponding policy chapter.
  - 5) Directives should be written in plain language, which is simple and easily understood. Federal Government agencies are required to write documents using Plain Language as documented in the Plain Writing Act of 2010. Guidance on plain language writing can be found here: https://www.plainlanguage.gov/. Additionally, technical language and legal jargon should be avoided at the policy level.
  - 6) Directives are not created for every contingency and are not necessarily intended to be all-encompassing, addressing every possible scenario or issue that could arise in the course of normal operations. In order to be effective, directives must be as accurate and as current as possible, but also available.

Part 18	Regulatory Affairs and Collaborative Action

- 7) Directives have standard formats that are generally unique to an organization. IA's directives templates are discussed in 1 IAM 1–H, IA Directives Handbook, and templates are located on RACA's SharePoint site here: https://doimspp.sharepoint.com/sites/doi-asia-raca/SitePages/IA-Directives-System.aspx.
- B. Procedures. Detailed guidance on directives development is found in 1 IAM 1-H: IA Directives Handbook. However, some key procedural information is as follows:
  - Before drafting a policy chapter, national or regional memorandum, or handbook, the originating office should consider carefully who should be involved in the directive's development, and who should surname the document. If another office, program, or functional area (i.e., the Solicitor's Office, Office of Hearings and Appeals (OHA), etc.) is assigned taskings or responsibilities within the document, the referenced group may need to review what is being proposed (and may be required to surname the directive as well once it's considered "final").
  - 2) The originating or authoring office is responsible for developing or updating the chapter, memoranda, or handbook content; circulating drafts for internal review and comment; making revisions in response to comments; working with RACA to address all edits; determining who should be included in the surnaming process in consultation with RACA (RACA enters it into DTS); and ensuring the material is appropriately distributed after publication.
  - 3) Once the document is surnamed and signed by the appropriate officials, the signed copy is returned to RACA through DTS. The directive is considered current and 'final' only after it has been signed by the appropriate signatory authority. RACA then performs final document processing, publishes the directive to the internet, and communicates with IA offices accordingly regarding the directive's publication.

	United States Department of the Interior OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY Washington, DC 20240
	FEB 17 2016
Memorand	um
To:	Deputy Assistant Secretaries Director, Bureau of Indian Affairs Director, Bureau of Indian Education All Regional and Office Directors
From:	Lawrence S. Roberts Acting Assistant Secretary – Indian Affairs
Subject:	Indian Affairs Policy and Directives
	ill the daily, programmatic functions that are so important to meeting Indian needs, please set aside some time to ensure that your office's operational policy

Country's needs, please set aside some time to ensure that your office's operational policy (including functions, delegations, and responsibilities) is accurately documented in the Indian Affairs Manual (IAM). Documentation of your operational policy is vitally important, not just because it is required by law<sup>1</sup>, but because it provides a framework to guide program decisions, promotes consistency in staff performance of functions, and furthers accountability to facilitate desired results. The Departmental Manual requires all bureau offices and programs to review their policies and directives for need and accuracy on a biennial basis.<sup>2</sup>

The IAM is the primary source of Indian Affairs (IA) operational policy.<sup>3</sup> The IAM replaced the Bureau of Indian Affairs Manual (BIAM) in 1997,<sup>4</sup> and changes in technology, organization, the law, and processes have superseded BIAM content. Your office's IAM chapters should reflect these changes.

Upon receipt of this memorandum, please ensure that you and your staff are no longer relying on BIAMs. Please also undertake a review of your IAM chapters to ensure they are as complete, current, and accurate as possible, and coordinate all IAM chapter drafts and updates through the IA Office of Regulatory Affairs & Collaborative Action (RACA). The RACA provides overall management of the IA Directives System, including all IAM chapters and other policy documents. The RACA staff are on standby to assist you in the process of updating your IAM chapters, as well as any other policy needs (e.g., policy memoranda, handbooks). Please contact Ms. Shannon Simpson, RACA Policy Specialist (703) 390-6328 or Ms. Amanda Begay, RACA Policy Specialist (703) 390-6758, for assistance.

Thank you in your continued efforts to keep the IAM as up-to-date as possible.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY Washington, DC 20240

NOV 2 4 2014

Memorandum

Part 18

Chapter 5

1404 2 4 2014

To: All Central Office Directors

All Correspondence Contacts All DTS Users From: Thomas Thompson

Deputy Assistant Secretary - Indian Affairs (Management)

Subject: Indian Affairs Policy Database

This memorandum is to inform all users of the new Indian Affairs (IA) Policy Database created in the Data Tracking System (DTS) to track all IA operational policy and directives. The IA operational policy and directives include documents such as the Departmental Manual (DM) chapters, Indian Affairs Manual (IAM) chapters, handbooks, and national and regional policy memoranda.

The IA Office of Regulatory Affairs and Collaborative Action (RACA) is responsible for managing the IA Policy Database. The RACA will continue to work with management and program staff to determine the correct surnaming participants before routing for action, and will ensure the necessary surnames and final signature are obtained.

With the implementation of the IA Policy Database, the following procedures will apply:

- All IA surname-ready policy and directives will be created and routed in DTS by RACA;
- All documents will be routed for electronic surnaming and will not be surnamed in any other manner (i.e., no hard copy routing);
- Transmittal and Clearance Sheets will no longer be used;
- The authorized official will sign the signature page (i.e., last page of the policy or directive); and
- When a document is signed, the program office will upload the scanned original into DTS and return the signed hard copy to RACA for their official record.

The RACA provides information and templates on its intranet website to assist those who develop/update policies and procedures for IA programs and activities. They may be found at: http://inside.bia.gov/Org/AS-IA/ORM/DirectSys/index.htm. In addition, the IA Directives Handbook (1 IAM-H), provides detailed guidance on IA policy development, and may also be found at: http://www.bia.gov/WhatWeDo/Knowledge/Directives/Handbooks/index.htm.

If you have any questions regarding the IA Policy Database procedures, you may contact Ms. Shannon Simpson by telephone at (703) 390-6328 or by email at Shannon.Simpson@bia.gov. The DTS Administrator, Stephanie Cloud, will remain the contact person for any DTS issues, questions, or concerns. Ms. Cloud may be reached at (202) 513-0827 or by email at Stephanie.Cloud@bia.gov.
